'Bruce' sets God's number ringing

WASHINGTON (RNS)-More than 30 homes and businesses across the country have been taking calls for God after a new film used a real-life phone number for the Almighty.

In the movie "Bruce Almighty," Jim Carrey plays TV news reporter Bruce Nolan, who temporarily receives God's powers. When the character of God tries to reach Nolan, God's phone number is displayed repeatedly on Nolan's pager.

But instead of the bogus 555 prefix usually used in movies and television shows, the seven-digit number that appears in "Bruce Almighty" is a working number in many areas of the country-and droves of pranksters and seeking souls have been dialing it up.
