Diverse Baptists pledge to become watchdogs for social justice

BATON ROUGE, La. (ABP)—Leaders of four Baptist groups representing almost 5 million Baptists in the United States met with Louisiana elected officials in Baton Rouge to find ways to fight the poverty brought to light by hurricanes Katrina and Rita.

The Baptist leaders said they will serve as watchdogs for justice and try to prevent further exploitation of the poor as relief efforts turn into recovery in the storm-ravaged Gulf area.

a.k.a. "Lost": Discovering Ways to Connect with the People Jesus

Misses Most by Jim Henderson (WaterBrook Press)

If you like hard-nosed, in-your-face evangelism that assaults people with the good news, then this book is not for you.

Henderson writes about evangelism that takes conversation and listening seriously under such chapter titles as “Boldness is Overrated,” “Count Conversations, Not Conversions,” “Evangelize with Your Ears,” and “Out of Religion and Into Reality.”
