TOGETHER: Center exists to serve Texas Baptists

The days of telephone switchboard operators sitting before a panel, moving wired plugs from one connection to another are long gone. In today's world, we push buttons and depend on computers to connect our calls.

In all the improvements that technology has brought to us, however, we can sometimes feel a loss for the human touch. How many times have each of us been frustrated as a computerized "voice" tells us to punch "1" for this service, "2" for another and so on, only to give up after several minutes of frustrating menu choices?

The Baptist General Convention of Texas is trying to make telephoning easier. We have created one toll-free number for Texas Baptists to use in accessing all our many services, and we have staffed a Service Center with real people to take your calls and help you get the information you need.

CYBER COLUMN: Sleep

By Berry Simpson

I'll just go ahead and say this up front: I have a mixed relationship with sleep. Sometimes I love it; other times I hate it.

Take afternoon naps, for example. I like to take naps. In fact, I would say that I need naps in my life in order to recharge myself. If I miss my Sunday-afternoon nap, it will haunt me for days. I may get more done that particular Sunday afternoon, but I'll be operating at half-effort the rest of the week.

Blogs draw attention to anticipated showdown at SBC

By Hannah Elliott, Greg Warner & Robert Marus

Associated Baptist Press

GREENSBORO, N.C. (ABP)—Blogs already have revolutionized secular politics, and whether a subset of it has revolutionized Baptist politics will be seen at the Southern Baptist Convention's annual meeting June 13-14 in Greensboro, N.C.

The meeting will feature the first seriously contested SBC presidential election in a decade and several other controversial business items. The combination likely will produce the most contentious convention meeting since 1991, when moderates left after a long and bitter struggle with fundamentalists over control of the nation's largest Protestant denomination.

Born Again Grillers fire up meat, ministry

By George Henson

Staff Writer

GATESVILLE—Some people say, “The way to a man’s heart is through is stomach.” David Braziel believes that adage holds true not just in romance, but also in spiritual matters.

Braziel and a team of 15 other volunteers from Coryell Community Church in Gatesville stand ready to feed all they can. The Born Again Grillers, as the ministry is called, have cooked at civic events such as a recent American Heart Association walk, golf tournaments, birthday parties and anniversaries.
