

Maciel inaugurated as BUA president; pledges commitment to servant leadership

October 5, 2007

Posted: 10/05/07

President
René Maciel smiles during the closing recessional of his presidential inauguration at Baptist University of the Américas.
Maciel is followed by Board Chair
Phyllis Nichols, and (left to right in next row) Hulitt Gloer,
Paul Powell, Charles
Wade, Nelda Taylor and Baldemar Borrego.
(Photos courtesy of BUA)

Maciel inaugurated as BUA president; pledges commitment to servant leadership

By Marv Knox

Editor

SAN ANTONIO—Service and leadership will be the themes of René Maciel’s tenure as the seventh president of Baptist University of the Americas, he stressed at his inauguration Sept. 28.

“We want to train our students to be servant-leaders,” Maciel said at First Mexican Baptist Church in San Antonio. The university exists to inform and empower servant-leaders so they can meet “the vast human needs in the world around them,” he added.

René Maciel speaks following his inauguration as president Baptist University of the Américas in San Antonio

Wayland students demonstrate degree of difference

October 5, 2007
Posted: 10/05/07

Josh Smith, a Wayland senior from Anchorage, Alaska, cleans trash in the Plainview Cemetery during Degree of Difference Day.
(Photos courtesy of Wayland
Baptist University)

Wayland students demonstrate degree of difference

By Teresa Young

Wayland Baptist University

PLAINVIEW—Students and staff from Wayland Baptist University fanned out across Plainview to paint the town—literally—during Degree of Difference Day.

Volunteers worked at 21 sites to help local agencies and churches by offering free labor for the day.

Expatriate Baptist minister runs for Kenyan Parliament

October 5, 2007

Posted: 10/05/07

Peter Kioko, secretary general of the Kenya African National Union, congratulates Solomon Kimuyu as he emerges from a meeting of the political party after receiving the group's nomination to represent Machakos town constituency in the Kenyan Parliament.
(Photos courtesy of Solomon
Kimuyu)

Expatriate Baptist minister runs for Kenyan Parliament

By Ken Camp

Managing Editor

DALLAS—A Kenyan Baptist minister who has lived in Texas more than 25 years appears likely to be elected to Parliament in his homeland.

Solomon Kimuyu has been nominated by the Kenya African National Union to represent Machakos township, about 35 miles east of Nairobi, in Kenya's Parliament and serve as leader of the Akamba tribe.

Solomon Kimuyu, a Baptist minister who attended Hardin-Simmons University and earned degrees from Howard Payne University and Dallas Baptist University, will run for a seat in Kenya's Parliament as the candidate of the Kenya African National Union.

Howard Payne students serve communityâ€”with right motive

October 5, 2007

Posted: 10/05/07

Howard Payne students (left to right) Skyler
Maley, Angel Journey, Chelsea Murphee and Jennifer Brock help plant flowers at CARES nursing home.
(Photos courtesy of Howard Payne
University)

Howard Payne students serve community—with right motive

Like a “swarm” of bees, Howard Payne University students busied themselves on a recent Saturday by meeting needs in the Brownwood area.

Students Tamatha Faircloth (left) and Tabitha Davies help paint at the Good Samaritan in Brownwood.

About 130 Howard Payne students participated in SWARM—Serving With a Right Motive—a campus service project launched in 1997 and coordinated by the HPU Student Activities Council. Students completed a variety of jobs including painting, cleaning and yard work at service sites including the Boys & Girls Club, Brownwood Nursing and Rehab, the Brownwood Fire Department, Care Nursing Center; Family Services Center; First Baptist Church of Brownwood, the Girl Scouts, Good Samaritan, the Humane Society, Keep Brownwood Beautiful, the Loaves and Fishes ministry, Milton Avenue Baptist Church, Pecan Valley American Red Cross and The ARK.

Howard Payne University students David Lara and Brittany Buchanan visit with residents of the Brownwood Nursing Home and Rehabilitation Center.

Retired ministers from 22 states gather at Glorieta

October 5, 2007
Posted: 10/05/07

Bill Tolar (center), retired biblical backgrounds professor from Southwestern Seminary, shows archeological items from the Holy Land to (left to right) Mary and Price Mathieson of Lawn Baptist Church in Abilene and Davis and Neta Harrell
from Mont Clair, Calif., members of White Avenue Baptist Church in Pamona.
(Photo by David Clanton)

Retired ministers from 22 states gather at Glorieta

By David Clanton

Special to the Baptist Standard

GLORIETA, N.M.—Think of it as fellowship among old friends interrupted by food, Bible study and worship. That's the way one participant described the annual gathering of retired ministers, missionaries and church staff at Glorieta Conference Center in New Mexico.

About 400 participants converged on the mountain retreat from 22 states and one foreign country—Brazil—to hear preaching by Baptist General Convention of Texas Executive Director Emeritus Bill Pinson, music led by Keith Ferguson of First Baptist Church of Carrollton and Bible study led by Bill Tolar, retired professor from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary.

Cybercolumn by Brett Younger: When Jesus comes to Sunday school

October 5, 2007

Posted: 10/05/07

CYBER COLUMN:

When Jesus comes to Sunday school

By Brett Younger

Leon Lyles has been teaching Sunday school since Lyndon Johnson was president. He teaches a bit like Johnson would, but without the colorful language and Democratic politics. He knows the Bible like Johnson knew the Constitution. He knows Genesis to Revelation and the footnotes at the bottom of the page. In fact, more than anything else, he teaches the footnotes.

Leon begins: "The lesson today is from the ninth chapter of Luke. This passage requires scholars such as ourselves to dig deep into the first century world. Verses 57-58, and I am reading, as I always will, from the King James Version, 'A certain man said unto him, "Lord, I will follow thee whithersoever thou goest." And Jesus said unto him, "Foxes have holes, and birds of the air have nests; but the Son of man hath not where to lay his head.'"

Brett Younger

One verse memorized for the last 79 years—and counting

October 5, 2007

Posted: 10/05/07

One verse memorized for the last 79 years—and counting

By Toby Druin

Editor Emeritus

WAXAHACHIE—Lucile Manning considers Romans 12:1 her life verse: “I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service” (KJV).

The verse has guided her life since August 1929, when at age 18 she responded to her pastor’s plea to “give everything to Jesus.”

Lucile Manning, who turns 97 in December, has memorized a Bible verse each year for the last 79 years.

Cybercolumn by Berry D. Simpson: To the very edges

October 5, 2007
Posted: 10/02/07

CYBER COLUMN: To the very edges

A few months ago, I read a passage from Leviticus, and ever since that morning, I've been wondering about my life—wondering where the edges are; wondering when I should be generous; wondering what I should be giving away.

The verse I read was Leviticus 23:22, which says: “When you reap the harvest of your land do not reap to the very edges of your field or gather the gleanings of your harvest. Do not go over your harvest a second time or pick up the grapes that have fallen. Leave them for the poor and alien. I am the Lord your God.” This verse is located among a collection of rules about how to present offerings to God, so I’m assuming the command to leave some of the crop behind was more about worshiping God than about sharing with the poor. I wrote in the margin of my Daily Bible: “I wonder what the equivalent is for me? What are my crops, and where are my edges?”

Berry D. Simpson

God wasn’t encouraging the people to be sloppy farmers when he told them not to harvest to the very edges; he wanted them to live a generous lifestyle. He expected them to not be greedy, even with the fruit of their own labor, but rather to be generous and free. He also meant that they shouldn’t make needy people beg for help—don’t make them stand in line to ask for the leftovers, but leave them respect and honor along with the crops.

So my questions: What is the harvest of my land? What do I produce? What is it that I should leave behind, around the edges, for others to glean?

RIGHT or WRONG? Prayer in schools

October 5, 2007

Posted: 9/29/07

RIGHT or WRONG? Prayer in schools

In the spring, a mass e-mailing circulated at the school where I teach. It reports a teacher's presentation to a school board. She says all the things expected from the teacher on a relatively small salary, and closes with "... and why can't I pray in school?" I believe material like this actually demeans prayer rather than uplifts it. Am I right?

First, let's examine what the law actually says in this area. A helpful booklet titled A Teacher's Guide to Religion in the Public Schools, published by the Freedom Forum's First Amendment Center, says: "As employees of the government, public school teachers are subject to the Establishment Clause of the First Amendment and thus required to be neutral concerning religion while carrying out their duties as teachers. That means, for example, that teachers do not have the right to pray with or in the presence of students during the school day."

Previous Columns

Move over She-Hulk. Make room for Samson.

October 5, 2007

Posted: 9/29/07

Move over She-Hulk. Make room for Samson.

By Mary Warner

Religion News Service

HARRISBURG, Pa. (RNS)—Jesus and Moses were sold out, but consumers still could line up at the checkout counter to pay for Mary, Noah, David and a ferocious-looking Samson, packaged with Delilah in hot pink.

Discount chain Wal-Mart is test-marketing biblical action figures. (RNS photos courtesy of one2believe)

The world of posable action figures has traditionally belonged to hulking heroes such as Spider-Man and He-Man. But this latest crop—heroes and heroines from the Bible, on local Wal-Mart shelves since mid-August—are a testament to central Pennsylvania's proclivity for religion and Wal-Mart's marketing savvy.

Around the State

October 5, 2007

Posted: 9/29/07

Around the State

- Fielder Road Church in Arlington and Dallas Baptist University are partnering to bring the "Lead Like Jesus" conference to North Texas via satellite. The Oct. 19 conference will feature Ken Blanchard, Erwin McManus, John and Nancy Ortberg, and other Christian leaders from around the country. The simulcast will begin at the Arlington church at 10:15 a.m., but the doors will open at 9 a.m. Tickets are $25, or $10 for students with a current student identification card. Lunch is included in the ticket price. For more information, call (817) 460-2234 or (214) 333-5103.

- JoAnne Ivy has been appointed an apprentice missionary by the International Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention. She will serve in West Africa. Southcliff Church in Fort Worth is her home church, where she served as a preschool associate.

United Churches of Marshall Food Pantry volunteer Dave Rayner helps East Texas Baptist University students Zack Francis and Katy Little sort out donated food.

Freshmen students from both ETBU and Wiley College walked Marshall neighborhoods collecting donated canned foods left in bags by residents. The food pantry has been serving families more than 20 years with 18 congregations participating in the ministry, according to Rayner. Students collected more than 5,000 plastic bags of food donated by Marshall residents.
The ministry is open five days a week, serving an average of 10 families per day. "I really think the students enjoyed what they did today," ETBU Director of Student Activities Tye Easterly said. "No one is complaining, and they are excited about learning more about the community and want to learn more about community activities."

- Eleven new board members have been appointed by the Baylor Health Care System Foundation. They are Glenn Callison, Tom Dunning, Stanford

Finney, Gini Florer, Bill Miller, James Miller, Beverly Nichols, Wallace Reed, John Tolleson, Michelle Valdez and Terry Worrell.

- Catherine Crawford has been named vice president for institutional advancement at East Texas Baptist University.
-

BSM director arrested, accused of wife's death

October 5, 2007

Posted: 9/29/07

BSM director arrested, accused of wife's death

By John Hall

Texas Baptist Communications

KERRVILLE—The part-time Baptist Student Ministries director at Schreiner University was arrested Sept. 21 for allegedly killing his wife in 2006.

According to The Daily Times in Kerrville, McLennan County authorities obtained a warrant for Matt Baker, 36, that claims he drugged and smothered Kari Baker in their Hewitt home. Her April 7, 2006 death was initially ruled a suicide.