Everett hopes to unify BGCT around â\|\|\mathrm{\pi}\|\mathrm{mission passionâ\|\|\|\|\|\|

February 15, 2008 Posted: 1/28/08

Everett hopes to unify BGCT around 'mission passion'

By Ken Camp

Managing Editor

Missions, Christian education and advocacy are three primary "kingdom tasks" the nominee for executive director of the Baptist General Convention of Texas believes can unite Texas Baptists.

Randel Everett, pastor of First Baptist Church in Newport News, Va., hopes to unify the BGCT around "not just a mission statement, but a mission passion."

Randel Everett

Storylist for 2/04/08 issue

February 15, 2008

Storylist for week of 2/04/08

TAKE ME TO: Top Story | Texas | Opinion | Baptists | Faith & Culture |
Book Reviews | Classifieds | Departments | Bible Study

×

• The security of the believer: Protecting churches from attack

- Youth speaker wants to point students to real catalyst for change
- Providential communication failure led student to DBU and faith in Christ
- Evangelism requires commitmentâ even if it means holding church under a tree
- On the Move
- Around the State

Security of Believers: Is your congregation safe from attack?

- The security of the believer: Protecting churches from attack
- Church security demands all hands on deckâ□□but maybe not with arms
- What should worshippers do if their church is attacked?

The New Baptist Covenant meeting in Atlanta, Ga.:

- Love leaves no room for â∏us and them,' Dallas pastor says
- Sexual exploitation alive in America; churches can end it
- New Baptist Covenant: Unity. Harmony. Now, what comes next?
- Covenant participants close gathering with determination but few specifics
- Biblical witness commands God's people to â∏∏welcome the stranger'
- Program enables watershed experience for seminary students
- Time in God's presence primary requirement for spiritual discipline
- Medical professionals urge congregational health advocacy
- Panelists urge New Covenant Baptists to fight institutional racism
- Separation of church & state can be complex, but it's worth the effort, speakers insist
- Prophetic preaching breaks down barriers, builds up God's kingdom
- Relationships needed to break poverty cycle
- Baptists wrestle with ways to find common ground with other faiths
- Public servants & preachers challenge Baptists to welcome â∏

 ī
 ☐the stranger'

- Panelists offer practical suggestions for peacemaking
- Need for church response grows as HIV/AIDS pandemic continues to spread
- Baptists challenged to advocate for reform of a broken criminal justice system

- Pastors: World waits for authentic messengers
- Any church can participate in disaster relief, Baptists are told
- Sexual exploitation alive in America; churches can end it
- Rogers challenges churches to engage in justice issues
- Mainstream Baptists hear Shurden, honor Lolley
- College students unite to serve Atlanta following Baptist celebration
- Gregory admonishes Baptists to show concrete concern for â the stranger
- Silence, shame and stigmaâ∏the unholy trinity of AIDS
- Baptists called to combat ignorance about religious liberty
- North American Baptist plan to work together on disaster relief

- Baptists urged to reach out to victims of sexual exploitation
- Gore Urges New Covenant Baptists to Take Up Mantle of Creation Care

care needs

- Churches can provide significant response to health
- Seminary president suggests practices to nurture â∏capacity for the sacred'
- Panelists, participants explore interfaith relationships
- Workshop challenges New Covenant Baptists to seek peace
- Prophetic preachers take varied approaches
- Ethnically diverse churches look like God's kingdom, speakers insist
- Christians called to â∏∏welcome the stranger'

- Global ills take center stage at Baptist convocation
- Novelist Grisham calls fellow Baptists to respect diversity
- Give students a cause worthy of their devotion, panelists urge
- â Incarnation is key for Baptists engaging policy, speakers stress
- Individual, church response crucial to alleviating poverty

- Christians called to tear down walls, not build them, South Texas pastor says
- Campolo asks Baptists, â∏Which Jesus should we preach?â∏∏
- Baptist unity takes center stage as New Covenant meeting opens
- Unity the focus of New Baptist Covenant gathering, organizers insist
- Atlanta meeting may prompt real change, some Baptists insist

×

- VeggieTales creator's self-image: More Mr. Rogers than van Gogh
- For Casting Crowns, performing and recording music is just a side job
- Islam not source of Middle Eastern conflicts, former CIA official insists
- Holy Land church leaders appeal for Gaza
- Some worry Habitat dispute might stall Katrina recovery
- Faith Digest

×

• New book examines life and contributions of â∏Daddy King'

×

- Classified Ads
- On the Move
- Around the State
- Texas Baptist Forum

×

- EDITORIAL: The BGCT's opportunity for success
- DOWN HOME: Talk about your gridiron miracle
- 2nd Opinion: Political truth: Rhetoric or conduct?
- RIGHT or WRONG? Win or reconcile?
- TOGETHER: Thanks to God; prayer for blessing
- Texas Baptist Forum

×

- BaptistWay Bible Series for February 3: Disciple=servant
- Explore the Bible Series for February 3: Do you care about others?
- Bible Studies for Life Series for February 3: The motive
- Bible Studies for Life Series for February 10: The message
- Explore the Bible Series for February 10: Do you obey in faith?

Previously Posted

- Blogger Burleson resigns from International Mission Board
- Evangelism requires commitmentâ \square even if it means holding church under a tree
- Teenager at South Texas Children's Home dies
- Everett hopes to unify BGCT around â□□mission passion'

- Buckner explores needs in Mexico
- Friends of Jesus share good news with their parents
- On 35th anniversary of Roe v. Wade, both sides celebrate decline of abortion
- Christian voters broadening political agenda, evangelical panelists say
- CERI launches child-sponsorship program in Sri Lanka
- Everett to be nominated as BGCT executive director
- Obama again refutes Muslim rumors; Jewish leaders denounce e-mails
- Huckabee's role in SBC conflict presaged political balancing act
- Satanists arrested on suspicion of arson in Ala. church burnings
- Attempt at dialogue with Muslims sparks criticism of NAE
- Ministries continue in Kenya as violence subsides somewhat, but tension remains
- See articles from the previous 1/21/08 issue here.

BCFS given lead role in emergency care for medical special needs

February 15, 2008 Posted: 2/15/08

BCFS given lead role in emergency care for medical special needs

By Haley Smith

Baptist Child & Family Services

The Texas Governor's Division of Emergency Management has given Baptist Child & Family Services the lead role in care for medical special needs disaster evacuees.

The San Antonio-based agency will provide medical special needs shelter training sessions for cities and counties statewide in the next year.

Around the State

February 15, 2008 Posted: 2/15/08

Around the State

- "Awake 2008: A Call to Spiritual Awakening" is being sponsored by Tryon-Evergreen Baptist Association. The March 29 rally at the Lone Star Convention & Expo Center in Conroe will feature T.W. Hunt. The event will begin at 6 p.m. Call (936) 856-2001 for more information.
- The Conference of Texas Baptist Evangelists has named its officers for the year. Elected were Paul Cherry, president; Todd Keller, vice president; Gary Newman, secretary/treasurer; Sam Craig, music director; and Ricky Davis, assistant music director.
- Former Baylor University First Lady Mary McCall has been presented the Founders Medallion for 2008. The medallion is reserved for people whose service and contributions have been unusually significant to the life and future of the university. McCall served the school as a student, professor's wife, parent, president's wife and alumna. She has been a member of numerous Baylor organizations and in 1982 was awarded the W.R. White Meritorious Service Award. For many years, she was a Sunday school teacher and trustee at First Church in Waco. She now is a member of Park Cities Church in Dallas.

Mary Russell
McCall was presented the 2008
Founders
Medallion by Dennis
Prescott, vice president for development,
and Baylor
President
John M.
Lilley.

• Gabriel Cortes has been named director of church and alumni relations at Baptist University for the Americas. He and his wife, Maria, have two children, Esteban and Andres.

Book Reviews

February 15, 2008 Posted: 2/15/08

Book Reviews

Before You Plan Your Wedding ... Plan Your Marriage by Greg and Erin Smalley (Howard Books)

Little girls dream of wearing flowing white dresses and lovely sheer veils. Brides and grooms, along with their families, spend hundreds of hours and thousands of dollars making the fairy tale ceremony and reception come true. But all too often, they forget that marriage for a lifetime is more important than wedding for a day.

Before You Plan Your Wedding ... Plan Your Marriage offers guidance for building a lasting Christlike union. In chapters ranging from "Will You Forgive Me?" to "If Only We Had Known," psychologists Erin and Greg Smalley share principles for making marriage work. "Couple exercises/homework" conclude each chapter, as the authors suggest activities such as focusing on each other (and not the wedding) 20 minutes a day.

What are you reading that other Texas Baptists would find helpful? Send suggestions and reviews to books@baptiststandard.com.

The Smalleys manage to tackle tough issues and differences in male-female communication and expectations with humor and personal stories. They share that early in their dating, Gary called Erin for a defining-the-relationship talk. Over dinner, he indicated he felt pressured. Erin left the restaurant assuming they had broken up—a suspicion confirmed when he didn't call for some time. So she started dating another guy, much to Greg's surprise when he returned from a long trip he forgot to mention to Erin.

Baptist Briefs

February 15, 2008 Posted: 2/15/08

Baptist Briefs

Fewer forced terminations in SBC churches last year. Forced terminations in the Southern Baptist Convention were down during 2006. The Southern Baptist Church-Minister Relations Association found 680 full-time and bivocational pastors were forced out of their positions in 2006, plus 265 staff members. While the total of 945 is 27 percent lower than the 1,302 reported for 2005, Barney Self, a former pastoral counselor with LifeWay Christian Resources who conducted the survey, pointed out the report lacked input from four state conventions. The omissions mean the actual number of terminations may have been closer to 1,100, he noted. According to the survey, control issues were the top reason for staff dismissals—the same reason that has topped the surveys since they were initiated in 1996.

SBC conducts online survey about youth. Teenagers, their parents, student ministry volunteers and youth ministers in Southern Baptist churches are eligible to participate in an online survey through April 13. Church registration for the survey, at www.sbcstudents.com/annualsurvey, runs through the end of March. After the survey closes, each participating church will be able to download a full report April 15. It will show the responses of their congregation separated into groups without identifying specific individuals who took the survey. All individual input will remain confidential. Free online manuals will be made available to churches to guide them in conducting workshops that bring key parents, youth and leaders to the table to set a new direction based on the information gathered from the survey. State conventions will be able to post statistics from their states on their websites, while SBC entities will have access to national figures to help determine effective directions for student ministry within the convention. Participating churches, meanwhile, will be able to compare their results with statewide and nationwide results.

Cartoon

February 15, 2008 Posted: 2/15/08

Shared meals at church take on a different flavor to meet changing needs

February 15, 2008

Posted: 2/15/08

Shared meals at church take on a different flavor to meet changing needs

By David Briggs

Religion News Service

AKRON, Ohio (RNS)—Andrew Hamilton still can taste the homemade apple, cherry and peach pies that capped off the covered-dish church meals of his youth in Lakeville, Mass.

In those days, children played on their own for hours while adults spent Sunday afternoons in conversation. The church seemed like one big family, said Hamilton, 44, pastor of Akron's Springfield Church of the Brethren.

Markesha Kimmie, 10, arranges Kool-Aid for a supper at Broadway United Methodist Church in Cleveland. Many churches have revamped the traditional church supper to meet the changing needs of busy families. (RNS photo by Lynn Ischay/The Plain Dealer of Cleveland)

2nd Opinion: Touch others: Healing & helping

February 15, 2008 Posted: 2/15/08

2nd Opinion:

Touch others: Healing & helping

By Jerry Hopkins

Educators learn a great deal about people—their views, virtues, vices and other things. The aim of most teachers and educational administrators is to help people. A central theme for educators is to be helpful, constructive and positive.

This also is one of the important themes of Jesus' life. In the historical book known as Acts, author/historian Luke describes this: "God anointed Jesus of Nazareth with the Holy Spirit, and with power, who went about doing good and healing all who were oppressed by the devil, for God was with him" (Acts 10:38). Doing good and healing should characterize anyone's life who works with people.

The central theme of our lives should be to serve others like Jesus did—offering healing, loving, helpful touches. Jesus went about doing good, lifting and loving, rather than hurting and hindering; blessing and building, rather than blighting and condemning. We need to do an audit of our lives,

DOWN HOME: A part of my heart now beats in Europe

February 15, 2008 Posted: 2/15/08

DOWN HOME:

A part of my heart now beats in Europe

The last I saw of Molly was just a tiny glimpse of her luscious blonde hair.

Even after we finished our hugs and kisses and waves goodbye, Joanna and I stood like statues outside airport security. We waited until we could see our youngest daughter no more.

Somewhere between "We'll miss you," and "I'll be praying for you every day," and "You'll have a great time; I'm so jealous," and "We'll be in touch through IM and Skype," and "Always travel in groups, and don't stay anyplace where you don't feel safe," Jo and I realized saying goodbye to our kid was harder than we reckoned.

Of course, sending Molly abroad for a semester isn't like shipping a child off to war or waving farewell to a daughter or son bound for missions in the Congo. But this was hard enough. This is our child, and she was about to be so far gone.

EDITORIAL: Candles alight for new Baptist unity

February 15, 2008 Posted: 2/15/08

EDITORIAL: Candles alight for new Baptist unity

Would you rather light a candle or curse the darkness?

At least 10,000 candles glowed in Atlanta, pushing back the cursed darkness of racism that enshrouded Baptists in this hemisphere for more than 160 years.

Those "candles" actually were people—Baptists who defied nay-sayers and doom-forecasters to attend the New Baptist Covenant convocation. They brightened the bleak midwinter. They cast light toward a new spring, a time for thawing frozen feelings; a time for planting seeds of reconciliation, collaboration and infinite hope; a time for leaning into awkward trust, unproven optimism and untested love.

Nay-sayers did their best to dampen those candlewicks so they'd never light. Doom-forecasters projected darkness for Atlanta, predicting polarization. They said the whole thing was cooked up by Jimmy Carter to promote a liberal Democratic agenda. They said the politicians would pollute the well of naive goodwill with partisanship. They said white attendance would be appalling and set racial reconciliation back five generations. They said Southern Baptist Convention-haters would leverage the platform to bash the SBC. They said Bill Clinton would campaign for his wife. In sum, they declared disaster.

Board to honor Wade, vote on Everett for Executive Director

February 15, 2008 Posted: 2/15/08

Board to honor Wade, vote on

Everett for Executive Director

By Ken Camp

Managing Editor

DALLAS—The Baptist General Convention of Texas Executive Board will honor a recently retired executive director Feb. 25 and vote on a nominee for his replacement the next morning.

Executive director nominee Randel Everett and his wife, Sheila, will be available to meet directors of the board individually throughout the day Feb. 25. At a retirement dinner that evening, directors will recognize Charles Wade for his eight years of service as executive director. Wade retired Jan. 31.

Sheila and Randel Everett