

Smorgasbord religion on the grow throughout United States

April 3, 2009

Scholars say the number of Americans who borrow bits from various religious traditions is multiplying.

Financial downturn hasn't sparked overall boost in church attendance

April 3, 2009

Polling data indicates no corresponding increase in church attendance as the stock market has fallen.

For the Bible tells me so

April 3, 2009

Some experts, concerned about rampant biblical illiteracy in the church, are prescribing a cure- Scripture-infused worship.

Author seeks to offer “eyewitness” account of Christ’s life

April 3, 2009

Frank Ball of Keller set out to retell the story of Christ’s life in chronological sequence in a simple, engaging way that would remain true to the Scriptures and serve as an effective evangelistic tool. The result is Eyewitness: The Life of Christ Told in One Story.

Author seeks to offer “eyewitness” account of Christ’s life

April 3, 2009

Frank Ball of Keller set out to retell the story of Christ’s life in chronological sequence in a simple, engaging way that would remain true to the Scriptures and serve as an effective evangelistic tool. The result is Eyewitness: The Life of Christ Told in One Story.

Train up a child: It takes parents and churches working together

April 3, 2009

Parents must take the lead in guiding children to love and learn the Bible, but the church should help, according to specialists in children's ministry.

Train up a child: It takes parents and churches working together

April 3, 2009

Parents must take the lead in guiding children to love and learn the Bible, but the church should help, according to specialists in children's ministry.

God wrote a book: How the Bible was made

April 3, 2009

James C. Denison, president of the Center for Informed Faith and theologian-in-residence with the Baptist General Convention of Texas, explains the history of how the Bible canon was brought together.

Church-state group opposes state funds going to Baptist school

April 3, 2009

A church-state watchdog group says the Kentucky Supreme Court should strike down a $10 million state appropriation to build a pharmacy school at Baptist-owned University of the Cumberlands, claiming it uses taxpayer funds to advance a particular religion.

Faith Digest: Court rules against student group

April 3, 2009

A federal appeals court has upheld an “open membership” rule for student organizations at a University of California law school.

Faith Digest: Court rules against student group

April 3, 2009

A federal appeals court has upheld an “open membership” rule for student organizations at a University of California law school.

Mercer conference focuses on ending modern slavery

April 3, 2009

In the face of the world’s fastest-growing crime — the enslavement of an estimated million people every year — Lauran Bethell had some profoundly simple advice for the attendees at Mercer University’s recent conference on human trafficking: “Just show up.”