

Mercer conference focuses on ending modern slavery

March 23, 2009

In the face of the world's fastest-growing crime — the enslavement of an estimated million people every year — Luran Bethell had some profoundly simple advice for the attendees at Mercer University's recent conference on human trafficking: "Just show up."

Death penalty opponents hope book will help end executions

March 23, 2009

Religious opponents of the death penalty hope Thomas Cahill's new book, A Saint on Death Row, about a Texas death row case by a best-selling author can help their efforts to end the practice of state-sanctioned executions.

Death penalty opponents hope book will help end executions

March 23, 2009

Religious opponents of the death penalty hope Thomas Cahill's new book, A Saint on Death Row, about a Texas death row case by a best-selling author can help their efforts to end the practice of state-sanctioned executions.

Do churchgoers like Web porn? Not on Sunday, study reveals

March 23, 2009

According to a new study, people who live in states with high church-attendance rates buy as much Internet pornography as their more secularized counterparts—but they are less likely to subscribe to an adult website on Sundays.

Do churchgoers like Web porn? Not on Sunday, study reveals

March 23, 2009

According to a new study, people who live in states with high church-attendance rates buy as much Internet pornography as their more secularized counterparts—but they are less likely to subscribe to an adult website on Sundays.

Ministries offer help for Christians with porn addiction

March 23, 2009

Responding to an increased accessibility, affordability and anonymity, faith-based organizations now offer their own strategies for overcoming pornography addictions, targeting evangelicals and others who consider the images sinful.

Ministries offer help for Christians with porn addiction

March 23, 2009

Responding to an increased accessibility, affordability and anonymity, faith-based organizations now offer their own strategies for overcoming pornography addictions, targeting evangelicals and others who consider the images sinful.

Families: Redeeming the Time

March 23, 2009

In tight economic times, making family memories doesn't have to mean breaking the bank.

Family missions involvement raises children's awareness

March 23, 2009

Getting a young family involved in missions might seem impossible, but there are several possibilities available to help children and parents serve the needy.

Family missions involvement raises children's awareness

March 23, 2009

Getting a young family involved in missions might seem impossible, but there are several possibilities available to help children and parents serve the needy.

Faith Digest: Faith lowers stress, research suggests

March 23, 2009

Canadian researchers have discovered strong religious convictions can lower stress and enhance the performance of basic tasks.

Faith Digest: Faith lowers stress, research suggests

March 23, 2009

Canadian researchers have discovered strong religious convictions can lower stress and enhance the performance of basic tasks.