Teens choose friends over ministers in making ethical choices, poll says

WASHINGTON (RNS)-Teenagers who want help making ethical decisions are about six times more likely to seek out their friends than to ask a minister for guidance, a poll shows.

Eighty-three percent of teens said they would turn to their friends for help in making such choices, followed by their parents (68 percent), teachers (27 percent), the Internet (24 percent) and clergy (14 percent).

The poll also showed that almost one-third of teens surveyed think they have to “bend the rules to succeed.”

African-American Christian women urged to intercede for the nation

HOUSTON-College student Andrea Punch grew up believing missionaries were white-haired women serving God in Asia. That stereotype vanished this summer when Punch became a missionary in Cuba.

Punch, a student at Baylor University, spoke during the first Sisters Who Care conference for African-American women, held recently at First Metropolitan Baptist Church in Houston.

She challenged participants to go home and get busy, because God has called each of them to be missionaries wherever they live.

Court hears cases concerning display of Ten Commandments

By Robert Marus

ABP Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON (ABP)-The Supreme Court has agreed to wade into one of the day's most explosive church-state issues-whether displays of the Ten Commandments on public buildings ever can be constitutional.

Child care offered for BGCT. Free child care will be provided for out-of-town messengers to the Baptist General Convention of Texas annual meeting Nov. 8-9 at the Henry B. Gonzalez Convention Center in San Antonio. Care for young children—infants through 5—will be offered on-site in Ballroom A by the Texas Baptist Men Child Care Unit. The unit is licensed and certified by the state, and all workers have passed training courses and criminal background checks. The service will be offered Monday, Nov. 8, from 9 a.m. to 11:45 a.m., 12:30 p.m. to 4:45 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. On Tuesday, the times are 6:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Reservations are required. Parents will be responsible for their children's meals, but snacks will be served during their stay. For reservations, contact Tracy Barber, TBM childcare director, by Oct. 29 at (972) 782-8418 or tracy@bartandtracy.com. A registration packet will be mailed to parents.

Resolutions requested. Messengers to the Baptist General Convention of Texas annual meeting who wish to present resolutions for consideration are encouraged to submit the resolution in writing prior to the convention, said Dan Treviño, chair of the resolutions committee. The deadline for submitting resolutions at the convention is 4 p.m. Monday, Nov. 8. But to allow adequate consideration by the committee and because of printing deadlines to include the resolutions in Tuesday's convention Bulletin, Treviño encourages early submission. Resolutions must be signed by an elected messenger, with church name included. Proposed resolutions may be submitted to Dan Treviño, Harlandale Baptist Church, Box 14278, San Antonio 78214.

Baylor honors Amarillo couple. Baylor University recently named Randy and Stacy Sharp of First Baptist Church in Amarillo as "parents of the year." The university recognized the Sharps during a halftime ceremony at a Baylor Bears football game during parents' weekend. The Sharps both graduated from Baylor, receiving their bachelor's degrees in business administration in 1976. Their eldest daughter, Meridith Sharp Genuchi, received her bachelor's degree in business administration and a master's of accountancy in 2002. Their other three children currently attend Baylor: Austin, a senior majoring in business and environmental studies; Troy, a junior business major; and McKay, a freshman business major.

TOGETHER: Convention needs to be reorganized

This year, the Baptist General Convention of Texas has taken a close look at itself. We've looked at what we're doing and what we can, by the grace of God, do in the days and years to come.

It has been a productive process, leading to development of new statements regarding our mission, vision, values and priorities. These will guide us.

Those statements, however, will be worthless if we do not become more effective and intentional as a kingdom enterprise. With that in mind, in coming months we will restructure our staff and the way we do our work. Everything will be geared to serving churches better.

Valley Baptist Health System names CFO

HARLINGEN-Valley Baptist Health System has named longtime Rio Grande Valley banker Randy McLelland senior vice president and chief financial officer.

McLelland previously served as chief operating officer for Lone Star National Bank, following years of executive leadership at JP Morgan/Chase and its predecessor bank, Texas Commerce Bank.

He has served on the Valley Baptist Health System board of directors, most recently as chairman of the board.

CYBERCOLUMN: Rain must fall

By John Duncan

I'm sitting here under the old oak tree, remembering drops of rain dripping on my head. Recently I stood under a tree while making a pastoral visit. The picturesque scene might well have been painted on a postcard.

Clouds looked down. Rain dripped. The orange sun like a ball of fire peeked behind the clouds and over the horizon as it set. The grass beneath my feet glowed green. Conversation ensued.

Church sees its wellness ministry as modeling life of Christ

By Greg Garrison

Religion News Service

HOMEWOOD, Ala. (RNS)-When people visit Dawson Memorial Baptist Church, they often go to run, lift weights and work out their bodies, as well as their worship and prayer lives. They also find out if they have cancer, diabetes or high blood pressure.
