DOWNHOME: Not-so-patiently learning to wait

If you pray for patience, God might move you to a Texas neighborhood with plenty of trees.

(By the way, never pray for patience or wisdom unless you really mean it. Those are wonderful virtues, but their acquisition comes with a steep, steep price.)

Joanna and I moved to our home in Coppell, in far northwest Dallas County, not quite a year and a half ago. Our girls both had graduated from high school, and Jo and I realized we could trim our commute time without uprooting our progeny. So, we moved.

From a practical standpoint, we were thrilled with the shorter driving times each day. From an emotional standpoint, we reveled in the homey-ness of our house. And from an almost spiritual standpoint, we adored all the trees.

RIGHT or WRONG? A spouse's etiquette

My husband and I said the traditional vows in our wedding a few months ago. The richer/poorer and sickness/health parts have been easy enough to deal with. However, my husband's table manners and social etiquette have deteriorated since we dated. I don't want these things to become a wedge. What can I do?

Buckner postpones Kenya trips due to political unrest

By John Hall

Texas Baptist Communications

DALLAS—Buckner International has postponed two mission trips to Kenya in light of political unrest, but the agency has no plans to “back out” of ministry there.

In the wake of a disputed presidential election, violence has broken out in parts of the country. Tens of thousands of people have fled their homes. About 300 people have been killed, including 35 people who were burned to death in an Eldoret church.

Bird-eye view of Valley left indelible impression on long-tenured pastor

RIO HONDO—Considering the median tenure for Southern Baptist pastors at any given church is 4.2 years, Gene Horton's 40-years-and-counting at First Baptist Church in Rio Hondo places him among the ranks of less than one percent of his peers.

Horton, who has been in the ministry 55 years, credits his lengthy of service to "God's keeping power."

Gene Horton

Frances Knight, who has been a Sunday school teacher at the Rio Hondo church for 38 years, believes the secret of her pastor's success is simple.

"God has kept him steady because he is a man of prayer, and he faithfully preaches the gospel of salvation," she said.

Choices. We all make hundreds of them every day. Many concern trivial issues and almost are made unconsciously. Others involve decisions that affect the course of our life as well as that of our family.

MARSHALL—As a dormitory at East Texas Baptist University gets a major facelift, some of its furnishings are finding a new home in Mexican orphanages, and others will meet needs throughout the Southwest, thanks to a cooperative venture involving several ministries.

After students left campus at the end of the fall semester, ETBU physical facilities employees started to work moving furniture out of dorm rooms in preparation for an extensive renovation of Charles Fry Hall, a one-story men's residence hall built in 1977.

New Baptist Covenant, Huckabee rank as top stories in '07, journalists say

By Robert Marus

Associated Baptist Press

WASHINGTON (ABP)—The biggest news story among Baptists in 2007 was about an event that has not even happened yet—the announcement of an unprecedented meeting of Baptists from across North America—according to an informal survey of journalists in the Baptist media world.

The Celebration of a New Baptist Covenant, announced in January by former presidents Jimmy Carter and Bill Clinton—and the ensuing controversy stirred by its critics—was the top vote-getter in 2007's Associated Baptist Press survey. The historic pan-Baptist meeting will be held in Atlanta Jan. 30-Feb. 1.
