

How churches can support eating disorder recovery

November 30, 2021

Advice for churches and ministry leaders for more effective ministry with those recovering from eating disorders, from one who is.

Three ways churches can minister to international students

November 30, 2021

An international student offers practical suggestions for Christians and churches wanting to minister to international students.

Pastor, how are you bearing up under grief?

November 30, 2021

Ron Cook shares four ways pastors and other ministers can lighten the load of their own grief and stress while ministering to others.

10 keys for a great start in a new ministry position

November 30, 2021

Howie Batson, senior pastor of First Baptist Church in Amarillo, shares the 10 keys for a great start he gives to all new church staff.

Comical stories a pastor can appreciate

November 30, 2021

Every minister has at least one funny ministry story. Sometimes, those stories can be shared. Don Newbury shares a couple.

How a trained interim pastor can improve a pastor search

November 30, 2021

If your church is seeking a new pastor, a trained interim can strengthen your church as you search, Karl Fickling contends.

Building a staff team: Finding the right fit, Part 2

November 30, 2021

Howie Batson, pastor of First Baptist Church in Amarillo, describes how to investigate a candidate during a ministerial search process.

Building a staff team: Finding the right fit, Part 1

November 30, 2021

Howie Batson, pastor of First Baptist Church in Amarillo, outlines steps for a successful ministerial search process.

Why every church needs a dissolution clause

November 30, 2021

John Litzler explains why churches, just like individuals, need to give thought to the disbursement of their assets should they cease to exist.

Ways to be a witness in your workplace

November 30, 2021

Even when Christians are prohibited from speaking openly about their faith at work, they have many opportunities to demonstrate their faith.

PTSD is in your church, and you can provide care

November 30, 2021

June 27 is PTSD Awareness Day. A chaplain with PTSD points to six practical ways your church can care for those with PTSD.

‘Here I am’ means being seen and refreshed by God

November 30, 2021

Making oneself present to God in the simple response, “Here I am, Lord,” can lead to healing, growth and spiritual health.