

Setting New Year's goals

January 1, 2013

Normally, I don't make New Year's resolutions. But this year is different.

A busy little Christmas

January 1, 2013

Raise your hand if you've griped about being "too busy" this Christmas. Me, too.

Time to change

January 1, 2013

Madness is repeating an action and expecting a different outcome. The slaughter of innocents is madness. It's time for change.

Jesus & your secrets

January 1, 2013

You can entrust your soul to Jesus, but don't expect his name to protect your online secrets.

Winding up well

January 1, 2013

The best sports story of this year just floated across home plate. R.A. Dickey won Major League Baseball's Cy Young Award, bestowed upon the best pitcher in each league.

What's next, America?

January 1, 2013

Election 2012 provided plenty of drama. Now, the governing will be even more fascinating. And challenging.

True colors

January 1, 2013

After years of transparent teasing, Richard Land finally endorsed a candidate. Wonder what Team Romney promised him?

Hope for CommonCall

January 1, 2013

Hope filled our hearts as we prepared the pre-publication edition of CommonCall: The Baptist Standard Magazine.

Seeing the boogeyman

January 1, 2013

Sometimes, I wish I couldn't forward my office calls to my cell phone.

Vitriol vacation

January 1, 2013

Wouldn't it be nice if Christians would declare a moratorium on political smack until after the election?

2493 = nonsense

January 1, 2013

Just when you think one of the world's most annoying rumors has died, here comes "Petition #2493." Again.

Of princes and PKs

January 1, 2013

In some ways, I feel a little bit sorry for Prince Harry. But only a very little bit.