

In praise of vasectomies

October 30, 2008

A Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary professor has compared a form of birth control to murder. He's wrong on so many levels.

A loooooong life

October 30, 2008

I'm going to live to be 97 ...

Hold me, Jesus

October 30, 2008

I don't know how people get through life without the gentle touch of Christ.

How much is enough?

October 30, 2008

Christians could make a powerful contribution to U.S. society if we offered a compelling definition for "enough."

Candidate virtues

October 30, 2008

Even if we didn't agree on all the issues, this is the kind of candidate I'd respect.

Baptists' first principles

October 30, 2008

The First Baptist Church in America, scaffolding and Baptist principles

Great choice for ExBd

October 30, 2008

Steve Vernon is a great pick for associate executive director of the BGCT Executive Board.

Cell phone Sabbath?

October 30, 2008

What does anxiety about a “dead” cell phone say about the pace—and focus—of life?

Speaking God's name

October 30, 2008

Jews won't pronounce it. Now, Catholics won't say it in worship. Should Protestants speak the name of God?

Great to be back

October 30, 2008

Editor Marv Knox is (mostly) glad to be back from vacation at the beach.

Listening to waves

October 30, 2008

Marv Knox is on vacation, and his staff hopes he comes back in a good mood.

Community organizers

October 30, 2008

Although it's become a political football, "community organizer" is a badge of highest honor.
