

Around the State: Cook marks 30 years service at DBU; national speakers slated at UMHB, ETBU and BUA

April 11, 2018

Dallas Baptist University celebrated 30 years of service to the university by Chancellor Gary Cook. When Cook was elected fifth president of DBU on April 6, 1988, the university was close to closing its doors due to financial difficulty. During his tenure as president, the university lived within its budget 28 consecutive years, and its assets grew from $27.7 million to more than $171 million. Enrollment grew from 1,859 to more than 5,000 students, and Cook handed diplomas to about 27,000 graduates. In February 2015, he announced plans to step aside as president and accept the role of chancellor to spearhead a campaign to raise $100 million in scholarship funds for DBU students. He maintained a dual role as president and chancellor until May 2016, when trustees elected Adam C. Wright as president. Cook is a deacon at Park Cities Baptist Church in Dallas, and he is chair of the board of trustees of Baylor University Medical Center.
