

Around the State: TBM continues to serve Gulf Coast; ETBU students pray during See You at the Pole

October 4, 2017

Texas Baptist Men volunteers continue to serve in 11 sites along the Texas Gulf Coast, providing disaster relief in partnership with Baptist volunteers from more than two dozen other states. Through Oct. 3, they contributed more than 216,000 volunteer hours and made more than 17,000 personal contacts. So far, they have prepared more than 1.3 million meals, delivered more than 47,000 boxes for survivors to use to store their belongings, provided access to nearly 19,000 showers and washed more than 11,000 loads of laundry. Volunteers provided care for more than 900 children in shelters, completed mold mitigation in about 750 water-damaged homes and completed more than 550 chainsaw jobs. They have presented the gospel more than 1,000 times, distributed more than 4,400 Bibles and recorded 195 professions of faith. East Texas Baptist University gathered around the campus flagpole Sept. 27 for the global student-led day of prayer, See You at the Pole. ETBU students interceded for their school, friends, family, churches, communities and country. Corporate prayer through special events like See You at the Pole, prayer conferences, prayer groups and weekly chapel services are an integral part of campus life at ETBU, and private prayer rooms are available in the Ornelas Spiritual Life Center for individual prayer, organizers noted. Prayer requests can be submitted to the school's intercessory prayer ministry at bsm@etbu.edu, pray@etbu.edu or by calling (903) 923-2184.

☒ Cody Hedges, motivational speaker and former Texas Tech football player, will join Matt Deggs, head baseball coach at Sam Houston State University, and Pastor Kalith Brown for the "Let's Do It" Men's Conference Oct. 14 at First Baptist Church in Denver City. The event will feature teaching sessions and music designed to inspire and challenge men to live their faith out in their everyday lives. The University of Mary Hardin-Baylor will celebrate the Central Texas special-needs community Oct. 14. The university invites athletes with Downs Syndrome and their families to join a tailgate party at noon, prior to the 1 p.m. football game between the UMHB Crusaders and the Howard Payne University Yellowjackets. Participants who register before Oct. 9 will be granted free admission to the game, receive a commemorative football and be allowed on the playing field at halftime. Other members of the special-needs community and their families also will be given free admission at the gate when they use the keyword "Touchdowns."

Baylor University received a $2 million gift from Sherri W. and Robert "Bobby" L. Patton Jr. of Fort Worth that will enhance the legal writing and pro bono programs in the Baylor Law School. Established in honor and in memory of Sherri Wallace Patton's father, the Charles E. Wallace

Endowed Fund for Legal Writing will support programming in Baylor Law School's Legal Writing Center. The Sherri W. and Robert L. Patton Jr. Endowed Fund for Pro Bono Clinics and Programs will provide overall support for pro bono clinics and initiatives at Baylor Law School. In addition, the Pattons' gift will provide scholarship funding for law students. In appreciation of the family's gift, the courtyard entrance of Baylor Law School's Sheila and Walter Umphrey Law Center will be designated the Charles E. Wallace Courtyard. After earning a bachelor of business administration from Baylor in 1955, Wallace graduated from Baylor Law School in 1960 and went on to a legal career as a partner in the Waco law firm Wallace and Smith, which later became Wallace, Fisher and Neville. During his studies at Baylor, he served on the editorial board of the Baylor Law Review.
