

GuideStone summit to tackle cybersecurity, sexual abuse

January 8, 2018

DALLAS (BP)—Cybersecurity and sexual abuse in the church will be among the topics addressed at GuideStone Financial Resources' second annual Employee Benefits Summit.

The Southern Baptist Business Officers Conference and GuideStone Benefits Forum merged last year to create the summit for church business leaders. The conference, slated for March 26-28 at The Westin Galleria in Dallas, offers an expanded menu of networking and training opportunities.

Speakers include Holly Boullion from CapinCrouse, who will cover cybersecurity, and Kimberlee Norris from MinistrySafe to address the topic of sexual abuse in the church, along with Gayla Crain, an employment law attorney.

Up to 11 qualifying hours will be available for Continuing Professional Education credit.

"The Employee Benefits Summit brings together leading experts to provide the latest news and actionable insight for personnel leaders in churches and ministry organizations," said GuideStone President O.S. Hawkins. "We hope that any church or ministry leader whose responsibility includes employee benefits would make plans to attend."

For more information on registering, click here. Registration is $199, but early-bird registration is available for $149 through Jan. 19.