

Human rights advocate elected to top NABF leadership role

June 23, 2016

Elijah Brown—formerly a professor at East Texas Baptist University—has been elected general secretary of the North American Baptist Fellowship. He is the executive vice president of the Falls Church, Va.-based 21st Century Wilberforce Initiative, an international human rights group that advocates religious freedom as a universal right. The Baptist World Alliance once designated him as one of the top emerging global leaders in 2007.
