

IMB layoffs hit home; no additional missionaries required to leave overseas

January 14, 2016

The Southern Baptist International Mission Board announced Jan. 14 the elimination of its stateside communications department. But with 700 veteran missionaries and 50 home office staff accepting a voluntary retirement incentive, no additional overseas personnel are expected to be required to return to the United States.

Read it at Baptist News Global.