

Walker still sees need to boost religious freedom

July 19, 2016

Brent Walker can see the U.S. Capitol and the U.S. Supreme Court building when he arrives at work. That's appropriate, since the religious liberty advocate often finds himself heading over to those two buildings, as well as the White House and other government buildings in Washington.

Read it at Baptist News Global.