

More teens see social media's negatives but not quitting

April 29, 2025

Although a recent Pew Research study says more teens are becoming aware of the negative effects of social media, that doesn't mean they're ready for anything resembling a large-scale break from it.

Most pastors say their churches will survive

April 29, 2025

A new survey from Nashville-based Lifeway Research found 94 percent of Protestant pastors believe their church will still be open in 10 years, with 78 percent strongly agreeing that will be true.

Chris Tomlin's new song resurrects oldest known hymn

April 29, 2025

A new version of an ancient debuted last week, courtesy of a new translation from biblical scholar John Dickson and help from Chris Tomlin and Ben Fielding, two of the most popular modern worship songwriters.

‘Speaking Truth to Power: The Revolt of a Russian Priest’

April 29, 2025

It’s a misconception Russians worship a strong central government and have no place for freedom of conscience or religious freedom in their history, historian Wallace Daniel said.

Religious Freedom blueprint on display in New York

April 29, 2025

A 17th-century letter considered the blueprint for religious freedom in the United States was displayed for the first time in seven years at the New York Public Library on April 8.

College guide raises questions on BGCT-related colleges

April 29, 2025

Texas Monthly recently released its annual college guide, including profiles on BGCT-related colleges, which at first glance seems to paint a troubling picture in a few categories.

Andraé Crouch's 'colorblind evangelism' focus of new book

April 29, 2025

A new biography written by two individuals closely related to Baylor University's Black Gospel Music Preservation Program aims to capture both the genre-defying range of Andraé Crouch's music, as well as his ability to build bridges through his evangelistic ministry.

Some Christians seek to overturn same-sex marriage

April 29, 2025

At a Dallas meeting of mostly evangelical communicators, activists and lawyers, discussions repeatedly circled back to same-sex marriage.

Gallup study shows pandemic's lingering effects on kids

April 29, 2025

Five years after the COVID-19 pandemic, a Gallup study is sharing parents' perspectives on how that time has affected their children's social skills and mental health, as well as its impact on academics.

Student ministry leaders and parents share goals

April 29, 2025

Anecdotes often portray parents and student ministry leaders at odds, but both groups share a desire to see the next generation grow spiritually, a Lifeway Research study shows. Each also believes they have a positive, healthy relationship with the other.

Mission partnerships take shape at Ascent gathering

April 29, 2025

A “movement” focused on reengaging North America with the gospel that has been brewing for almost a decade is beginning to take a more defined shape, and Texas Baptists have quite a few seats at the table.

Gelsinger hopes to make AI a force for good and for God

April 29, 2025

Pat Gelsinger longed has believed faith and technology can be forces for good in the world. Now the former Intel CEO hopes to put AI to work for God.