

Trump selects Baptist chaplain to lead VA

November 22, 2024

President-elect Donald Trump has nominated a Baptist chaplain and former pastor to be the next head of the Department of Veterans Affairs.

Tenn. pastors say Trump win won't solve America's woes

November 22, 2024

On the Sunday after the election, Pastor Allen Jackson gave thanks for veterans and the election results, to church members' applause.

What evangelicals say they want from Trump's second term

November 22, 2024

Evangelical advisers of President Donald Trump say they are hoping for more from him the second time around—although exactly what form those policies will take appears to be the subject of debate.

Faith groups resolve to protect migrants and refugees

November 22, 2024

Former President Donald Trump's election to a second term—after campaigning on blocking migration and carrying out record deportations—prompted faith groups that work with migrants and refugees to reaffirm their commitment to continue their work.

White Christians made Donald Trump president again

November 22, 2024

The support of white Christians once again proved key to Donald Trump's election victory.

America tried Christian nationalism, and it went badly

November 22, 2024

Pastor Jason Genest gets nervous when he hears people talk about wanting to make America Christian by using the power of politics. America tried that in the past, he said. It did not go well—including for the founder of Genest's own church.

Hispanic Christians condemn racist jokes at Trump rally

November 22, 2024

Amid outrage over racist jokes told at a Donald Trump campaign event, some Hispanic Christian leaders are raising questions about the candidate's standing with a crucial ethnic and religious demographic.

Religious right leaders reckon

with GOP pivot on abortion

November 22, 2024

Since July, when the Republican National Committee dropped a federal abortion ban from its national platform, several traditional religious right leaders have suggested they have been betrayed.

Christian nationalism growing among Hispanic Protestants

November 22, 2024

Over the last year and a half, surveys have tracked a significant rise in support for Christian nationalism among U.S. Hispanic Protestants, even as support for the ideology has remained fairly stable among other Christian groups.

Resettlement of Christians fleeing persecution rebounds

November 22, 2024

The United States resettled more Christians fleeing persecution in fiscal year 2024 than it has since 2016, Open Doors and World Relief said in a report unveiled Oct. 14 as insight for policymakers and voters weeks ahead of the U.S. presidential elections.

Evangelicals for Harris ad prompts threat of lawsuit

November 22, 2024

An advertisement by Evangelicals for Harris that contrasts clips from a sermon by evangelist Billy Graham and statements by Donald Trump is for Harris, is now the subject of a potential lawsuit from the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association.

Trump-endorsed Bible may be headed to Oklahoma schools

November 22, 2024

Oklahoma is in the market for some Bibles. They might get some help from Donald Trump.