

Trump promises televangelists revival of Christian power

February 23, 2024

Former President Donald Trump promised religious broadcasters he would make a triumphant return to the White House next year and restore Christian preachers to power in American culture.

Peace pilgrimage sees war in Gaza as civil rights issue

February 23, 2024

When Pastor Stephen Green began planning a march from Independence Hall in Philadelphia to the White House to urge an end to the war in Gaza, he settled on what he hoped was an auspicious start date: Wednesday, Feb. 14, Frederick Douglass Day.

How did sports betting spread in spite of faith leaders?

February 23, 2024

Some of the nation's largest faith groups have long considered gambling a menace to society, but some faith leaders feel like they are fighting an uphill battle.

CVS employee fired for refusing to sell birth control sues

February 23, 2024

A former CVS Health employee filed a federal lawsuit in Florida against the company after she was fired for refusing to prescribe contraceptives due to her religious beliefs.

Biden speaks of praying, working for peace

February 23, 2024

President Joe Biden vowed to keep working and praying for resolutions to global conflicts as he addressed the National Prayer Breakfast.

Respect for religious diversity voiced, but hate crimes rise

February 23, 2024

More than 90 percent of surveyed American adults say they support religious pluralism, the Becket Fund for Religious Liberty found in its latest Religious Freedom Index, contrary to acts of religious hatred and intolerance amid the Israel-Hamas War.

Chicago pastors help the city grapple with flood of migrants

February 23, 2024

Chicago already was facing a homelessness crisis before Texas Gov. Greg Abbott began directing thousands of migrants entering his state to places that had declared themselves migrant-friendly sanctuary cities.

Evangelicals ask candidates: Seek biblical immigration solutions

February 23, 2024

The Evangelical Immigration Table and World Relief issued a letter Jan. 11 to U.S. presidential candidates urging them to consider biblical principles when drafting solutions to the immigration crisis.

Religious leaders mark MLK Day with voter mobilization

February 23, 2024

For Black church leaders and multiracial coalitions, Martin Luther King Jr. Day, less than 300 days from Election Day, has come to represent the unofficial start to voter mobilization efforts.

TikTok account spotlights dangers of Christian nationalism

February 23, 2024

The @EndChristianNationalism TikTok account has gained more than 40,000 followers and earned 600,000-plus likes in the past year.

At church, Biden denounces ‘poison’ of white supremacy

February 23, 2024

President Joe Biden denounced the white supremacy he said led to deadly violence at Mother Emanuel African Methodist Episcopal Church almost nine years ago.

Muslim couple’s lawsuit against school district dismissed

February 23, 2024

A federal judge in Illinois ruled a state school district is not responsible for the actions of a teacher who allegedly proselytized students in a public school classroom, leading a Muslim student to convert to Christianity.