

Discipleship not defined by technique, but by God working in a person's life

July 20, 2012

Any number of methods can be employed to disciple youth, but leaders believe youth ministers can tell if their methods are working by evaluating whether their young people are following Christ and exhibiting the fruit of the Holy Spirit.

Southwestern Seminary offers look at Dead Sea Scroll fragments

July 20, 2012

Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary opened its exhibition of the Dead Sea Scrolls July 2 in the MacGorman Performing Arts Center on its Fort Worth campus. The exhibition will continue through Jan. 13.

Bling for the Souls event brings blessings

July 20, 2012

The opportunity to fellowship, show off their decorating skills and bless someone else drew more women than anyone could have guessed to the inaugural Bling for the Souls event held at Bethel Baptist Church in New Caney.

Abilene Baptists seek to renew, connect caring communities

July 20, 2012

Connecting Caring Communities, a nonprofit organization that originated as a neighborhood improvement initiative at Hardin-Simmons University, is cleaning up and reaching out to neighborhoods in Abilene.

Finding the right camp

experience

July 20, 2012

Congregations need to consider what they are seeking to accomplish with their youth in order to pick a summer camp that meets their needs, according to Texas Baptist encampment leaders.

On the Move

July 20, 2012

Jim Benson to Edmund Boulevard Church in San Angelo as interim pastor.

Faith Digest: Bible museum planned for capital

July 20, 2012

A large-scale Bible museum will open in Washington, D.C., within four years, according to planners who have been touring the world with portions of their collection.

Baptist Briefs: BWA welcomes new members

July 20, 2012

The Baptist World Alliance accepted into membership two organizations — from Rwanda and Burundi- at its annual gathering in Santiago, Chile.

Around the State

July 20, 2012

Baptist University of the Americas has expanded its Latina Leadership Institute outside Texas for the first time through an extension in Sophia, N.C.

Nondenominational Christians, Muslims among top Texas

religious adherents

July 20, 2012

Southern Baptists continue to rank second only to Roman Catholics in terms of total adherents in Texas, but nondenominational churches have overtaken Methodists, according to Clay Price, BGCT information analyst.

Students study ancient manuscripts, thanks to vision of Hobby Lobby chief

July 20, 2012

The Logos Institute at Baylor University in June gave university and seminary students hands-on access to early Christian texts, thanks to a program sponsored by Christian businessman Steve Green.

DBU students help ministry perform CPR on area

July 20, 2012

Two students in the Dallas Baptist University management information systems degree program designed a database to help 6 Stones ministry perform CPR on a distressed neighborhood in the Hurst-Euless-Bedford area.