

Authors discover connection between gender and race

February 21, 2022

The authors of a pair of bestselling books on gender and evangelicals told a conference on racial healing they discovered how much their subject matter intersects with racial justice issues.

Racial healing requires dismantling oppressive systems

February 21, 2022

Healing racist systems within the church requires everyone—oppressed and oppressors alike—to recognize they are wounded by racism, a speaker told a hybrid conference offered online and at Baylor University's Truett Theological Seminary.

Cliff Temple helps connect community to its history

February 21, 2022

Volunteers from Cliff Temple Baptist Church worked with the Tenth Street Residential Association and others to clear away brush and bramble from overgrown graves in the long-neglected Black section of the segregated Oak Cliff Cemetery.

Fort Stockton couple sees God's hand in infertility and adoption

February 21, 2022

Rachel and Warren Camp see God's hand in the events that led to the creation of their family through adoption.

Sutherland Springs shooting survivors awarded $230 million

February 21, 2022

A federal district judge ordered the U.S. government to pay more than $230 million to survivors of the 2017 mass shooting of 26 worshipers at First Baptist Church of Sutherland Springs.

Mixed bag of youth organizations in Baptist churches

February 21, 2022

Other children and youth organizations are making inroads into some Baptist congregations—territory once occupied primarily by Royal Ambassadors and Challengers programs for boys and Girls in Action and Acteens programs for young women.

Frugé named director of Center for Cultural Engagement

February 21, 2022

Katie Frugé has been named director of Texas Baptists' Center for Cultural Engagement and the Christian Life Commission.

Multigenerational revitalization reflects church's mission

February 21, 2022

In his first 18 months as senior pastor at First Baptist Church in Cedar Hill, Josh Prince has baptized a 13-year-old, a man in his 80s and all ages in between.

Perryton couple follows God's call to small African nation

February 21, 2022

Stan and Angie Burleson have made many moves throughout their marriage. But their relocation to Lesotho—a small nation in southern Africa—has been one of the most challenging yet rewarding in their life together.

CommonCall: Invest in eternity;

support foster families

February 21, 2022

Stephanie Baskin understands foster parents need the support of a loving community. She wants her church—and other congregations—to provide wraparound care for those who open their homes and hearts to children in the foster care system.

TBM volunteer teams bring hope to Marshall Fire survivors

February 21, 2022

After the Marshall Fire ravaged Boulder County, Colo., more than 30 Texas Baptist Men disaster relief volunteers suited up and went to work, sifting through the ashes to bring hope to survivors

East Texas church grows with 'Who's Your One' campaign

February 21, 2022

First Baptist Church in Henderson implemented NAMB's Who's Your One evangelism campaign and saw growth during the COVID pandemic.