

Castro death unlikely to halt revival or spur increased liberty, observers predict

November 30, 2016

Cubans and Christians familiar with the church in Cuba remember Fidel Castro, who died Nov. 25 at age 90, as both an unwitting catalyst of revival and an opponent of religious liberty.

Archaeologists pinpoint site where Romans breached Jerusalem walls

November 30, 2016

Archaeologists discover the site where the Roman army breached the outer walls of ancient Jerusalem before capturing the city and destroying the Second Jewish Temple nearly 2,000 years ago.

West ignoring genocide of Middle East religious minorities, activists say

November 30, 2016

Nearly six months after Secretary of State John Kerry declared the murder of Christians in the Middle East “genocide,” Westerners are doing little to stop the killings, activists for the victims’ plight said.

God and games the Cunningham family business

November 30, 2016

Former NFL quarterback Randall Cunningham is not only Olympian Vashti Cunningham’s father, but also her coach—and her pastor.

Olympic swimmer Simone

Manuel gives glory to God

November 30, 2016

When Simone Manuel became the first African-American to win an individual medal in swimming, earning gold in the women's 100-meter freestyle, she was quick to credit God for that accomplishment.

Olympic volleyball player seeks God amid trials

November 30, 2016

Micah Christenson spent the past year playing professional volleyball in Italy. He thought it would be fun, until he got there.

Three-fourths of world population lacks religious liberty, ambassador says

November 30, 2016

The U.S. State Department warned that religion-based terrorists as well as some governments across the globe are threatening the liberties of religious minorities.

France and Germany search for solutions to Islamist challenge

November 30, 2016

Violent Islamist attacks in France and Germany have piled pressure on the two governments to search for new ways to confront the grim challenge they now face—radicalized Muslim youth.

Olympian Michael Phelps' rehab 'Purpose-Driven'

November 30, 2016

Baptist mega-church pastor Rick Warren's The Purpose-Driven Life significantly influenced Olympian Michael Phelps during rehab after his second arrest on a drunken driving charge.

Steele Johnson and David

Boudia have faith in their diving

November 30, 2016

Steele Johnson and David Boudia earned a silver medal in Rio. But the synchronized divers insist they find their identity in Christ, not on an Olympic podium.

Evangelical archer Mackenzie Brown takes aim at first Olympics

November 30, 2016

East Texan Mackenzie Brown may be the only woman on Team USA's archery squad, but she is just one of the guys in another way. Like her coach and many of her fellow bowmen, Brown, 21, is an evangelical Christian.

Olympic gold medalist finds

source of happiness in God's gifts

November 30, 2016

Caeleb Dressel made a big splash in his Olympic debut Aug. 7, winning a gold medal as part of the U.S. men's 4×100-meter freestyle relay team. Take a close look at him during some of his competitions, and you may notice a Scripture reference written across his face.