

Editorial: There's only so much we can care about

February 8, 2024

It sounds coldhearted at a time when we need warm hearts, but there's only so much we can care about. That's not a reason not to care.

Guest editorial: The pastorate is a full life

February 8, 2024

Pastor Ron Session shares the trials, sorrows, tedium, joy, sacredness and privilege of being a pastor—God's servant and Christ's ambassador.

Editorial: Lament is a proper response to SBC news

February 8, 2024

SBC news has not been heartening this week, and not just for Southern Baptists, but for all followers of Christ. Lament is a proper response.

Editorial: Is religious liberty for Christians only?

February 8, 2024

Is religious liberty for Christians only? For Baptists to answer this and related questions, they need to know themselves and their history.

Editorial: Funerals can wear a pastor out, but don't have to

February 8, 2024

Pastors are doing more funerals these days. Churches need to give attention to what this means for their pastors.

Editorial: What 'Jesus is Lord'

means in 2024

February 8, 2024

The start of a new year is a good time for Christians to remember their core proclamation, that Jesus is Lord and no one else is.

Editorial: As perfect as love

February 8, 2024

Whether we use one or more words, we're pretty sure we know what "love" means. Then, John comes along and qualifies the idea with "perfect."

Editorial: As powerful as joy

February 8, 2024

The joy we are looking for has seen some things, endured some things, and knows how the story ends. We're looking for a powerful joy.

Editorial: As profound as peace

February 8, 2024

The peace we long for seems elusive, papered over by this world's promises of peace. We need and seek something deeper.

Editorial: As purple as hope

February 8, 2024

Hope is a recurring theme in our news this week. Christian hope is not merely sentiment or desire. It's as rich as purple.

Editorial: The most important thanksgiving meal

February 8, 2024

Editor Eric Black describes one of the most meaningful Lord's Suppers he's ever taken and challenges readers to consider how they take it.

Editorial: Is thanksgiving a distraction?

February 8, 2024

Are you already feeling the stress of the holidays? Or just the stress of living in a world on fire? Or both? Could you use a distraction?
