

Commentary: Live the gospel of Jesus Christ even now

May 27, 2020

Before social distancing to stop the spread of coronavirus, Jesus overcame the distance created by sin and calls his followers to embody that gospel.

Commentary: COVID-19 steps up to a hot microphone

May 27, 2020

Joshua Gilmore, director of the Baptist Collegiate Ministry at North Greenville University in Tigerville, S.C., considers how Christians are equipped for the pandemic.

Commentary: Lessons from the ancient church for the present crisis

May 27, 2020

In past pandemics, the ancient church rose to the challenge by caring for people. The church can and needs to rise to the challenge again.

Commentary: Re-engaging the church during the coronavirus pandemic: Approaches and priorities

May 27, 2020

Jim Denison analyzes four medical responses to when churches might again gather for in-person services and Bible study in light of four priorities.

Commentary: Why this Baptist pastor signed up his church for a PPP loan

May 27, 2020

A Baptist pastor explains the difficulty of a Baptist church applying for a Payroll Protection Program loan and why he and his church eventually did.

Commentary: Grieving over how we must grieve during pandemic

May 27, 2020

Funerals are being done differently during the pandemic. A pastor well-acquainted with them shares what it's been like officiating during social distancing.

Commentary: Confident God prepared us for a time like this

May 27, 2020

After graduating from Hardin-Simmons University and moving to New York City, Charissa Conner joined a church staff there that is working overtime to minister to its city.

Commentary: Too young, too smart, too rich to be an alcoholic

May 27, 2020

What reasons have you heard—or do you give—for drinking alcohol but not being addicted? Lawrence Traynor shares three reasons he gave.

Commentary: Fearing courageously in the face of COVID-19

May 27, 2020

Is it wrong to be afraid right now? What purpose does fear serve? A psychiatrist and theologian considers these questions from three perspectives.

Commentary: Minding the mission during uncertain times

May 27, 2020

Jeff Smith, president and CEO of HighGround Advisors, explains their plan for facing the economic uncertainty accompanying the coronavirus pandemic.

Commentary: Invisible: God's will is being done

May 27, 2020

Glen Schmucker, minister and writer, shares how invisible things aren't all bad. God's mercy overcomes even the nastiest invisible things, like the coronavirus.

Commentary: A sign for the times

May 27, 2020

In the midst of the current uncertainty, do you need a sign from God?

Sandy Wisdom-Martin points to where to find direction from God.