

Commentary: Following Jesus is more faith than feeling

July 8, 2024

“We don’t measure what is true or false by how we feel. Our feelings and thoughts need to be brought into line with what Jesus taught.”

Voices: Being a ‘family on mission’

July 8, 2024

Cintia Aguilar describes a model of ministry that involves her whole family in embodying a communal calling.

Guest Editorial: The value of Texas Baptists’ Intercultural Ministries

July 8, 2024

Felisi Sorgwe explains the benefits to international churches and the whole

BGCT of Texas Baptists' decades-old intercultural ministry.

Voices: How cancer changed the way we look at life

July 8, 2024

Ruth Cook encourages cancer survivors through what she learned during her own experience with and surviving cancer.

Commentary: Evangelism without the guilt trip

July 8, 2024

Distinct from decades of fear-based evangelism, Taylor Standridge suggests a love-based approach to evangelism.

Voices: Is a fetus a human being?

July 8, 2024

Casey Spinks presents an argument for fetuses as human beings based on the doctrine of Jesus being fully human.

Editorial: One reason we need summer camp

July 8, 2024

Summer camp can give us a spiritual high, but the reason we need summer camp goes at least a step further.

Letter: Voices: My view of the 2024 SBC annual meeting

July 8, 2024

A Baptist Standard reader takes issues with Mike Miller's perspective of the 2024 Southern Baptist Convention annual meeting.

Voices: Finding my home in the Texas Baptists family

July 8, 2024

Josh King, new pastor of First Baptist Church in Lewisville, describes six things he's learned about Texas Baptists in six months.

Voices: Cooperation in disagreement: The way forward

July 8, 2024

"Not all distinctions are bad, and support and cooperation can thrive even when disagreements are real," Myles Werntz contends.

Voices: Yes, I'm a children's pastor, too

July 8, 2024

“God has called and will continue to call women. And those he calls, he equips—regardless of the circumstances surrounding the call.”

Voices: No one wants to be a refugee

July 8, 2024

Jalil Dawood, pastor of Arabaic Church of Dallas and a refugee who fled Iraq in 1982, describes what life is really like for refugees.