

Voices: Faith doesn't require perfection

March 15, 2017

Faith does not always lead us to victorious living or our best life now. Our better life is not promised here. What is promised here is joy, hope and love in the midst of our wandering.

Voices: If you have the Lord, you have everything

March 15, 2017

May the church cease to be known as anything other than the people of God's presence.

Heiligman: Let's pray Jesus' prayer—for unity

March 15, 2017

Unity of the local church is the chief testimony that will convince the world of the truth of Jesus' message and mission.

Editorial: Lovely words, loving God, loving others

March 15, 2017

When Christians are among the worst at speaking coarsely—vilifying and demeaning others—no wonder unbelievers and people of other faiths think badly of us, and also of our Savior.

Chris McLain: ‘... breaking bread together in faith’

March 15, 2017

This week’s profile of Texas Baptist ministers features Chris McLain, pastor of First Baptist Church in Crowell.

Voices: There’s one in every crowd

March 15, 2017

Does God have a unique assignment for the contrarians in every church?
Maybe they're there to convict everyone else's conscience.

Voices: Allowed ain't able, or able ain't allowed

March 15, 2017

How many families with special needs and how many senior adults are not involved in your church's ministry because your physical space will not accommodate them?

Voices: Don't vilify the BGCT, and don't demonize other churches

March 15, 2017

Honest, genuine grief is an appropriate response to the division within the Baptist General Convention of Texas regarding response to churches that welcome and affirm LGBT members.

Guest editorial: Why I love the church

March 15, 2017

When we are tempted to think about when the church has been its worst, we need to pause for a moment and remember when it was its best.

2nd Opinion: ‘School-choice’ vouchers provide solution to educational crisis

March 15, 2017

The head of Prestonwood Christian Academy contends a recent editorial opposing “school-choice” vouchers is wrong.
