

Orlando: Becoming a bolder witness for Jesus

July 9, 2014

Student Missions Blog: We are a little beyond the halfway mark in our missions assignment here in Orlando, and we are sure feeling it. Exhaustion and sickness are moving through our camp, but God is still good.

Portland: Finding value where others don't

July 9, 2014

Student Missions Blog: I'm embarrassed to say how many times I've been to the Goodwill thrift shop since I've been here. I think I went 10 times within my first 30 days in Portland.

Vancouver: Getting to know people

July 9, 2014

Student Missions Blog: The Vancouver area keeps becoming more familiar the more we learn and see. As a team, we have done a little exploring but more digging into ministry, which is hard to define here.

Brazil: Washing feet and sharing shoes

July 9, 2014

Student Missions Blog: From Day One in Brazil, our team leader urged us to be FAT – fluid, available and teachable.

Richard Ray: Don't miss the Bivocational /Small-Church Annual Conference

July 9, 2014

The Bivocational/Small-Church Annual Conference at the Baptist University of the Americas in San Antonio July 11-12 will encourage, equip and challenge those who serve on the small-church mission field.

In Touch: To Bartlett, Harlingen and Convencion

July 9, 2014

I spent Sunday, June 22, at First Baptist Church of Bartlett. It was a great service and a blessing to participate.

Jeff Johnson: Work diligently to maintain marriage and family 'soil'

July 9, 2014

Nine days after I got married in 1982, my new wife, Molly, and I had made our way back to what was then my parents' home to get the rest of my "stuff" for our new home.

Letters: Glorieta's sad ending

July 9, 2014

I thank you for shedding some light on the development at Glorieta and bringing to light the sad situation of its ending.

Right or Wrong? Persistence and patience

July 9, 2014

The New Testament advocates persistence and patience. How can we help people develop those virtues when culture touts expediency and pragmatism?

2nd Opinion: Failing to see God's love

July 9, 2014

Churches die for many reasons—from bad leadership decisions to bad luck to poor execution of programs and ideas. One reason they die is ingratitude.

Nashville: God at work in refugees' lives

July 9, 2014

Student Missions Blog: For two months this summer, I am interning at World Relief Nashville, helping resettle refugees.

Editorial: Hobby Lobby decision could boomerang

July 9, 2014

Hailed by conservative Christians as a victory for religious liberty, the Supreme Court's Hobby Lobby decision provides points to ponder, as well as occasion for both celebration and concern.
