

Guest Editorial: Fire is fine, but follow the fruit

September 3, 2025

Steve Bezner challenges believers to look past popularity and passion, and instead follow voices marked by Christlike character

Voices: What can Baptists learn from the Wesleyan tradition?

September 3, 2025

Ross D. Shelton explores how Baptists can learn from the Wesleyan tradition to strengthen faith and unity.

Voices: Live the Ten Commandments, don't coerce

September 3, 2025

Jack Goodyear calls on Baptists to uphold religious freedom and conscience, warning that government-mandated Ten Commandments in schools risk coercion, not true faith.

Guest Editorial: The separation of church and state goes both ways

September 3, 2025

Jeff Warren calls for Baptists to reject political idolatry and return to biblical truth, religious liberty, and the way of Jesus.

Voices: Remembering Mr. Missions

September 3, 2025

Scott Collins remembers the influence of Keith Parks.

Voices: Missionaries from the Global South pay the price

September 3, 2025

Jair Campos reflects on how currency devaluation and global politics impact the financial stability and mission work for global missionaries.

Voices: Lifting our global voice at BWA

September 3, 2025

What does global Christian unity look like? David Tate saw it firsthand at the Congress of the Baptist World Alliance.

Guest Editorial: Why we must share the gospel

September 3, 2025

Yamileth Gúzman encourages all believers to share the gospel, considering the personal and eternal impact it can have on others.

Voices: Churches

September 3, 2025

Johnny Teague reflects on the decline of church gatherings and buildings, highlighting the deeper spiritual need for revival in communities across the nation.

Voices: The pastoral life can be hard

September 3, 2025

Ron Cook shares challenges of pastoral ministry, including its demands, responsibilities, and long-term impact on pastors and their families.

Guest Editorial: Pure and Undefiled

September 3, 2025

Scott Collins reflects on a journey from disillusionment to renewal through decades of service, faith, and caring for the vulnerable.

Letter: Shocked and saddened

September 3, 2025

A reader is “shocked and saddened” by the recent Voices article, “Sad for Texas Baptists.”