

Guest Editorial: Pure and Undefined

August 13, 2025

Scott Collins reflects on a journey from disillusionment to renewal through decades of service, faith, and caring for the vulnerable.

Letter: Shocked and saddened

August 13, 2025

A reader is “shocked and saddened” by the recent Voices article, “Sad for Texas Baptists.”

Letter: Praying to whom?

August 13, 2025

A Baptist Standard reader responds to an article where an individual speaks on praying to the “power of love”.

Letter: Circus tent or revival tent?

August 13, 2025

Nathan Feinberg, pastor of Adamsville Baptist Church in Lampasas, responds to a Voices article by David Currie.

Voices: Not surprised nor sad for Texas Baptists

August 13, 2025

John Durham reflects on the BGCT's stance on biblical sexual ethics and the call to uphold scriptural truth amid cultural change.

Guest Editorial: Camp changed my life

August 13, 2025

Kathy Hillman shares how God used camp to speak to her and how He still uses camp to speak to believers of all ages.

Alaska: God is bigger than our lack of understanding

August 13, 2025

I served with Go Now Missions on a beach in Alaska during the salmon run. While families fished, I had the chance to do crafts with kids and share Jesus with them.

Voices: Sad for Texas Baptists

August 13, 2025

Texas Baptists once embraced freedom and diversity of thought. David R. Currie says it's time to return to those Baptist roots and stop being afraid of them.

Voices: You can be part of the immigration solution

August 13, 2025

Scott Collins shares how citizenship classes can help meet an immediate need for those seeking citizenship in America.

Voices: Gratitude for those missing

August 13, 2025

Don Forrester shares his experience in addressing grief with a focus on gratitude for God's gifts.

Guest Editorial: Why Hymns?

August 13, 2025

Patsy Davis shares her love of hymnals with readers.

Voices: Making sense of the seemingly senseless

August 13, 2025

Jim Lemons looks at how believers can respond to the tragedy of the Hill County flooding.