

Alaska: God is bigger than our lack of understanding

August 6, 2025

I served with Go Now Missions on a beach in Alaska during the salmon run. While families fished, I had the chance to do crafts with kids and share Jesus with them.

Honduras: God's vision for my future

August 6, 2025

A Vision Quest mission trip to Honduras led by Texas Baptist Men deeply impacted my life and helped me discover God's unique vision for my future.

Utah: Sharing in spite of fears and praying fervently

August 6, 2025

Student Missions blog: I prayed that the Lord would present me with opportunities to preach the true gospel of Jesus Christ found in the Scriptures, regardless of my doubts and fears. The Lord was merciful and allowed me to have several challenging conversations about faith.

Texas Tech: Learning lessons while discipling others

August 6, 2025

Students on Mission blog: I see God working through the questions, discipling and conversations that he has allowed me a part recently.

Colorado: Planting seeds in Kids Camp

August 6, 2025

Student Missions blog: This month, I am working with Christ Church in Windsor, Colo. Christ Church hosted a Kids Camp for the kids in the community. This camp was set up like a Vacation Bible School, but they called it Kids Camp to appeal to the community.

Mexico: From hot springs to Living Water

August 6, 2025

Student Missions blog: Juan was listening intently to everything we said. I am not fluent in Spanish, but I assure you that the Lord was helping me recall every ounce of Spanish that I knew to convey who he is.

Oregon: Why it's worth it

August 6, 2025

Student Missions blog: God is so good to produce fruit when we are faithful. He promises to use us.

Students on Mission: Impact across generations

August 6, 2025

Student Missions Blog: The life of Aly Finner's mother was changed forever thanks to a Go Now missionary. This summer, Aly Finner is serving with Go Now Missions.

Mission Lab: Listening to God, seeing blue speckles

August 6, 2025

Student Missions blog: Something I have been realizing the past few weeks is that God speaks back. My team and I have been taking intentional time to listen and hear what the Holy Spirit has to say and who he wants us to engage.

Huntsville: Move from acts of kindness to loving well

August 6, 2025

Student Missions Blog: The other night, I met with an international student, and we went to a favorite spot of his on the edge of campus. We spoke about his time here in America as we drank Turkish tea in special glasses.

Discovery Weekend: Gathered and called to go

August 6, 2025

Student Missions Blog: I didn't expect to bond with other students who only days prior had been strangers. I didn't anticipate confiding in one another about the ways in which we feel convicted, tempted and blessed.
