

Voices: Allowed ain't able, or able ain't allowed

March 8, 2017

How many families with special needs and how many senior adults are not involved in your church's ministry because your physical space will not accommodate them?

Voices: Don't vilify the BGCT, and don't demonize other churches

March 8, 2017

Honest, genuine grief is an appropriate response to the division within the Baptist General Convention of Texas regarding response to churches that welcome and affirm LGBT members.

Voices: Harriet Tubman—

‘Moses’ to the $20 bill

March 8, 2017

African-Americans still are “biting at the bits” to secure their place and receive acknowledgment for their sound contributions to U.S. history. Harriet Tubman’s placement on the $20 bill may mark the wave of a turning tide.

Voices: Lead out in civility, kindness and respect

March 8, 2017

The church constantly talks about being counter-cultural, and there is no greater way to be counter-cultural in this day and age than to be civil, kind and generous.

Voices: I have good news

March 8, 2017

Speaking the truth in love is a skill that is not developed much in modern discipleship. Good evangelism must rest upon good news and not the proofs of why I am right and you are wrong.

Voices: The connecting grace of becoming a Lenting Baptist

March 8, 2017

When we participate in Ash Wednesday services or in the whole of Lent, we are able to experience community with Christ-followers across the world and throughout time.

Voices: ‘He is your praise’

March 8, 2017

God deemed you worthy of Jesus—and that is the greatest praise you ever could receive.

Voices: The ‘curse’ that arrives from within

March 8, 2017

We can’t choose life for just us. We have to choose life for our neighbors as well. Any other way leads to death for us all.

Voices: Money can stop your heart

March 8, 2017

Mixing God and money leaves many with heavy hearts. Don't let money stop your heart. Instead, find freedom and fullness of life by giving your heart completely to God.

Voices: A call for ceasefire in America's culture war

March 8, 2017

Too often, we think of ourselves first as Republicans and Democrats who happen to be Christians as well. This is shamefully backwards. We are followers of Christ, children of the one God, who may happen to vote one way more often than the other. The kingdom of God is diverse.

Voices: Exploring the new world in the 21st century

March 8, 2017

How should people of faith live, and move, and have their being in a chaotically developing new world?

Voices: In these political times, protect your soul

March 8, 2017

Politics must not run our lives. It must not dictate the way we think about and treat others, and it must not leave us in despair. It must not become an idol.
